Description

Pochin Construction Ltd enjoy a working relationship with Robinson's that is over 30 years old. Our recent work at the Red Lion involved a £650k refurbishment of the existing hotel. The ground floor was completely stripped back and remodelled to provide a new bar and restaurant. An enlarged kitchen, dry store and glass wash area were formed as well as new toilets.

The internal finishes were completed to a high standard of specification and incorporated the use of oak timber, stone floors and Cheshire brickwork chimney breasts with natural stone surrounds.

Externally the building was altered to include green oak structural timber entrances. A green oak pergola was constructed leading to a covered smoking shelter in the beer garden.

The Public House is situated on the main London Road leading to Buxton, a short distance from Lyme park.
